

How best to improve Lake Koshkonong

By GREG PECK (Contact) Thursday, October 8, 2009 - 6:47 p.m.
EMAIL RSS SHARE

While driving a boat full of media, state officials and DNR staffers through wind, rain and fog Tuesday on Lake Koshkonong, Brian Christianson recalled a line from a memorable "Seinfeld" scene:

"The sea was angry that day, my friends."

Indeed, it was. Perhaps fittingly so. Because how to improve the lake has created a storm of controversy and litigation in recent years.

That litigation awaits an appellate court decision. Christianson, chairman of the Rock Koshkonong Lake District, wants to look beyond that ruling and map out a comprehensive improvement plan for the lake.

Can all parties get onboard with his ideas? That will be the subject of the Gazette's editorial on Sunday.

Greg Peck

<http://www.gazettextra.com/weblogs/opinion-matters/2009/oct/08/how-best-improve-lake-koshkonong/>